A Gospel Sermon.

[Winchester Sun-Sentinel.]

"I am the resurrection and the life."—John XI: 25.

Tuesday night we had the pleasure of listening at the Primitive Baptist church to a gospel sermon from the above text.

We used the words gospel and sermon advisedly. It was a gospel sermon, not a lecture such as we frequently hear in houses where the gospel is supposed to be preached. Gospel hymns, such as "Amazing Grace," "How Firm a Foundation," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," were sung by human voices. The sermon was deep—too deep to be appreciated or comprehended by those who only skim over the surface of the Bible truth. It was the good old doctrine of salvation by grace, not works, not by preaching, not by the church. Just grace and that not of self, but by the gift of God. At the conclusion of the service our old friend, Mr. W. Z. Haggard, united with the church. The preacher is Elder Charles H. Waters, of Maryland.

The series of sermons began last Saturday and were concluded last night. The members of this congregation are to be congratulated upon the auspicious beginning of the services in their new house. The building is in accord with the people who worship in it; not showy, but plain and sensible in construction.

In this growing city these old Baptists, as they are called, have a mission to fulfill and we do not doubt that they will do it with credit to themselves and the cause they represent.

How He Evaded the Suicide Law.

Lord Chief Justice Hankford of England, who lived in a former century, notwithstanding his high position became so tired of life that he determined to shuffle off this mortal coil. But he feared to commit suicide, because at the time a verdict of felony followed as a matter of course and the body of the suicide was buried at four cross-roads, with a stake thrust through it. Further, he had to avert the consequences to his relatives of forfeiture of his goods, which was also one of the penalties for self destruction. He adopted a novel expedient. Several of his deer having been stolen, he gave orders to his keepers to shoot any person they met in or near the park at night who did not immediately stand when challenged. Then on a dark night he threw himself in the path of the keepers and, not answering the challenge, was shot dead on the spot. The stump of an old oak under which he fell still marks the scene of the tragedy and goes to this day by the name of Hankford's oak.

New York's Harbor Eagles.

Above the pier—close to it and together, as if for comfort—huddled a cluster of tugs, those curious, powerful, persistent little steam craft that ply back and forth and up and down, saucily and busily important, their rows of fenders trailing in the water, their black smoke billowing out behind. Often I had watched them nosing in and out among the heavier craft, nudging a great ocean liner into mid-stream and singly or together pushing or pulling some huge helpless bulk, as an ant or as two might seize, and trundle a great dead bumblebee. Their power and their impudence had filled me with wonder. Viewing them now in repose, I was impressed by the fact, hitherto unconsidered, that upon almost every pilot house was a golden eagle with extended wings—a symbol of power and swiftness—and it was borne in upon me that the tug in truth is the harbor eagle, with all other craft for its prey.—Scribner's.

Trees and Rainfall.

Some persons ask if trees affect rainfall. That question is one on which foresters differ, but the large majority are satisfied they do induce rainfall. Vonmuller, Schenck and many others are emphatic in the claim that forests induce rainfall. It is certain they retain humidity to a great extent, and that alone would affect the rainfall; but the point on which all agree is the value of forests for the conservation of water, preventing floods or drought, distributing the water evenly the whole year. It is a matter of history in foreign countries that when forests have been destroyed the rainfall has been greatly lessened and more spasmodic.—T. P. Lukens in Maxwell's Talisman.

Foliage and Colors.

The colorings of variegated foliage plants cannot be intensified by the use of colored glass. A curious Belgian horticulturist, after a long series of experiments, concludes that brilliant light favors high coloration of foliage. Trees and shrubs with golden leaves, when poorly illuminated—that is, through either blue or red glass—became green or in some cases blanched. In no case did the colored glass have a beneficial effect, most plants after a month's exposure putting forth smaller leaves, less vivid in coloring. In some cases a very apparent stunting of the plant's growth was observable.

Why Popcorn Pops.

Why does popcorn pop? The department of agriculture answers the question, which was propounded to it by a small boy. Popcorn pops by reason of the volatilization of the oil contained in the kernel by heat. Field corn does not pop because the outer portion of the kernel is more porous, permitting the escape of the oil as it volatilizes, while in the case of popcorn a great pressure is developed in the kernel by the confined oil and the kernel is suddenly exploded and turned wrong side out.—Boston Herald.

His Turn Next.

The Iowa (Kan.) Register tells of a little girl with the measles. Her dog was in great distress because he could not go to her, and one day he was admitted to the bedroom. Putting his forefeet on the bed he madly wagged his tail and beamed gladness from every feature. Looking at him a moment, the little girl said angrily, "Oh, you needn't grin; your turn will come next."

Abroad.

Bootmaker (who has a deal of trouble with his customer)—I think, sir, if you were to cut your corns I could more easily find you a pair—Choleric Old Gentleman—Cut my corns, sir! I ask you to fit me a pair of boots to my feet, sir! I'm not going to plane my feet down to fit your boots!

Sample.

"George didn't keep his engagement with me last night," said the girl who was betrothed to him. "I'd give him a piece of my mind," said her mother. "Just a little sample of married life," suggested the father.—Cleveland Leader.

Widely Read.

One of the Girls—Do you think your poems are widely read? The Poet—Yes; nearly every editor in the country reads them.

Force of Habit.

Friend (calling on dentist)—My head aches terribly. Dentist (absentmindedly)—Why don't you have it out?

A man that is young in years may be old in hours if he has lost no time.—Bacon.

Exciting Chase After Lost Pocket-Book.

While a passenger on a Jefferson street car at Lexington, Monday, Miss Maria Tipton, of this city, left her pocketbook on the seat of the car, and while alighting from the car she saw a negro woman pick up something from the seat. As soon as she discovered the loss of the purse she recalled having seen the actions of the colored woman and was convinced that it was her pocketbook. By this time Miss Tipton had boarded the interurban car for Paris and when her car met the Jefferson street car on the return trip on the North Limestone switch she asked the conductor where the woman alighted, and upon being told that she had left the car at the end of the line on North Limestone she had the mortmain of the Paris car increase his speed until they had overtaken the colored woman.

When the car had overtaken the negro woman the conductor demanded the return of the purse and the woman promptly surrendered it. Nothing had been removed from the purse.

Through To Michigan Resorts In Northland Limited.

Drawing room sleeping cars leave Louisville daily 8:30 p. m. and Cincinnati 7:00 p. m. via Richmond in the Northland Limited, over the Pennsylvania Lines and Grand Rapids & Indiana Railway—"The Fishing Line"—reaching noted resorts of North Michigan the next morning. Information about reduced fares, fifteen-day excursion tickets, etc., may be obtained by communicating with C. H. Hagerty, D. P. Agt., Louisville, Ky.

Domestic Troubles.

It is exceptional to find a family where there are no domestic ruptures occasionally, but these can be lessened by having Dr. King's New Life Pills around. Much trouble they save by their great work in Stomach and Liver troubles. They not only relieve you, but cure, 25c, at Oberdorfer's drug store.

Cruel.

"But, papa," wailed the young woman, "you can have no idea how he loves me. He is willing to die for me this very minute." "Well," said the old man, scratching his head thoughtfully. "I don't know that I have any objection to that. I was afraid he wanted to marry you."

How They Interpreted It.

We are taught not to be anxious for the future, as the future will come in time.

We are taught in the sermon on the mount not to think of the future, because the evil we do in one day is sufficient.—Answers of London School Children.

An Emotional Trunk.

Landlady—I'll have to request you to pay in advance, Mr. Smith. Smith—Why, isn't my trunk good for a week's board? Landlady—No. It looks like an old fashioned emotional trunk. Smith—Emotionally? Landlady—Yes; one that is easily moved!

What Confirmed the Suspicion.

Mary (angrily)—I think you are the biggest fool in town, John. John (mildly)—Well, Mary, mother used to tell me that when I was a boy, but I never thought she was right about it until I married you.

Wonderful Nerve.

Is displayed by many a man enduring pains or accidental cuts, wounds, bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sore feet or stiff joints. But there's no need for it. Bucklen's Arnica Salve will kill the pain and cure the trouble. It's the best Salve on earth for Piles, too. 25c, at Oberdorfer's, the druggist.

A Very Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Ballamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. Price 50 cents.

CEMENT.—Every year there is a new brand of cement offered on the market but they have not as yet stood the test of time. Hanover Cement has been used right here in Paris for the past 18 years. The reason of this is because it is good. We sell it because we want to sell the best. STUART & WOODFORD.
